Abstract

This research investigated the place of coffee-houses from traditional to modern society. The coffee-house entity is a multi-faceted entity that has gradually changed over time. The importance of the coffee-house to modern society is often given to the coffee-houses of Iran. However, the place of the coffee-house in modern society is not limited to Iran only. The coffee-house has a long history of development, stretching back to the Ottoman Empire. The coffee-house in Iran is an important part of the country's cultural and social life. It is a place where people gather to socialize, discuss politics, and enjoy the company of friends. The coffee-house is a place where the exchange of ideas and the spread of knowledge are encouraged. The coffee-house is an important part of the country's cultural and social life. It is a place where people gather to socialize, discuss politics, and enjoy the company of friends. The coffee-house is a place where the exchange of ideas and the spread of knowledge are encouraged.

Introduction

Coffee-house is a special place in Asian culture. In addition to Iran, it is popular in Turkey, Greece, and China. (Yu, 2013: 12) Coffee-house is a form of entertainment and a place for social interaction. The coffee-house has played a significant role in the development of social and cultural life in different countries. It is a place where people gather to socialize, discuss politics, and enjoy the company of friends. The coffee-house is an important part of the country's cultural and social life. It is a place where people gather to socialize, discuss politics, and enjoy the company of friends. The coffee-house is a place where the exchange of ideas and the spread of knowledge are encouraged.

Keywords: Coffee-house, traditional-religious play, non-religious play, socio-cultural stability.