The purpose of this study is to make an innovation in teaching akhlak for the autistic children by using videos. Observation has been done on eight autistic students. All the autistic students involved in this study are categorized as low functioning autism age within 7 to 11 years old. Al-Quran class has been conducted on every Monday until Thursday for 30 minutes per day within 5 months period. The class is under project of Rintis Fakih, organized by Center of Quranic Research, University of Malaya. There are 22 manners that suit to be taught to the children have been identified. Negative manners and akhlak are strictly prohibited to be shown to them as they are not able to differentiate between good things and bad things. Result showed that these students like to watch videos repeatedly and it is easier for them to accept and understand instruction through multimedia. Therefore, awareness in selecting video should be taken as the learning aid for autistic children in the process of learning akhlak to avoid them from negative influence.
