Abstract
Nur al-Din Muhammad bin Ali bin Hasanji bin Muhammad Hamid ar-Raniri al-Quraissyi al-Syaffi’i, known as al-Raniri (d. 1658) was a renowned and versatile scholar of Aceh during the rule of Sultan Iskandar Thani (1046-1050 AH/1636-1641 AD). As a scholar, al-Raniri had authored 35 works on various disciplines of Islam specifically on tasawuf, theology, fiqh and history. The importance of history to al-Raniri is manifested not only in his largest work of history entitled Bustan al-Salatin fi Dhir al-Awwal wa al-Akhirin (The Garden of the Kings on the Recollection of the Past and Present) The Garden of Kings, showing forth the origin of all creation and the end thereof) (henceforth Bustan), but also in many of his other works. Many scholars such as Voorhoeve, P., Winstedt, R.O., Drewes, G.W.J. and Braginsky, V.I. confuse al-Raniri’s work on history to Bustan. However, based on the analysis of the content of al-Raniri’s works, the authors emphasize that there are actually six historical works of al-Raniri including Bustan. Besides that, the element of Islamic history is reflected in many al-Raniri’s masterpieces. Therefore, this article attempts to reveal al-Raniri’s works on history and the element of Islamic history in his other masterpieces. It employed a qualitative research approach that entails the technique of documentation in collecting data while inductive approach to content analysis was utilized for data analysis. The main documents used were the three versions of the manuscript of Bustan (Raffles Malay 8, Raffles Malay 42 and UM 41). The outcome of this research reveals the element of Islamic history in many works of al-Raniri that indicates history is the basic theoretical element of al-Raniri.

Sultan and was later appointed as Shaykh al-Islam (Mufti (chief jurist) and head of the ‘ulama by the Sultan. Al-Raniri made a great contribution to the development of Islamic sciences in the Malay World. As a scholar, al-Raniri had authored 35 works that cover the fields of tasawwuf and kalam (24 books), fiqh (3 books), history (6 books) and hadith (2 books). As a prolific writer in Malay and Arabic, al-Raniri wrote 14 books within his short period in Aceh (1047-1054 AH/1637-1644 AD) and 13 of them in Malay language.

Element of Islamic History in Al-Raniri’s Works

Al-Raniri’s works are in fact have been written by numerous scholar of the east and the west. Concerning the number of al-Raniri’s masterpieces throughout his life, Voorhoeve, P. (henceforth Voorhoeve) listed 19 works of al-Raniri, Ahmad Daudy (henceforth Daudy) listed 29 works and Jelani Harun, 25 works. On the other hand, Wan Mohd Shaghir Abdullah (cited hereafter Shaghir), a prominent Malay manuscript collector and a prolific writer concerning the ‘ulama’ of Nusantara had stepped forward by giving the complete list of al-Raniri’s work consisting of 34 treatises. Al-Raniri’s works were mainly on kalam (Islamic theology) and tasawwuf, nevertheless, he also wrote on fiqh, hadith and history.

Al-Raniri made a great contribution to the development of Islamic sciences in the Malay World. As a prolific writer in Malay and Arabic, al-Raniri wrote 14 books within his short period in Aceh (1047-1054 AH/1637-1644 AD) and 13 of them in Malay language. Among them were Durr al-Fara’id bi Sharh al-‘Aqida (Precious pearls on the description of ‘Aqidah), Sirat al-Mustaqim (The Straight Path), Bustan al-Salatin fi Dihr al-Awwalin wa al-Akhiriin (The Garden of the Kings on the Recollection of the Past and Present/ The Garden of Kings, showing forth the origin of all creation and the end thereof), Hidayat al-Habib fi al-Targhib wa al-Tarhib (The Guide of lover about happiness and fearful) and Akhbar al-Akhirah fi Ahwal al-Qiyamah (The Account of the hereafter and the day of judgement) (cited hereafter Akhbar al-Akhirah). If Bustan was al-Raniri’s biggest and largest work as well as the only single work of the classical Malay literature under the genre of the history of the Islamic world and Islamic universal history, Sirat, on the other hand, represents the first Malay book in the Malay World Malay pertaining salat (prayer), fasting, zakah and Hajj (pilgrimage to Makkah). Most of his writings aimed at refuting the concept of wahdat al-wujud of Hamzah and Shams al-Din.

Concerning al-Raniri’s works on history, many scholars recognized Bustan as al-Raniri’s work on history and discussion on this matter are available in their writings on Bustan such as by Winstedt, R.O. (henceforth Winstedt), Voorhoeve, Drewes, G.W.J. and Jelani Harun. These scholars confine al-Raniri’s work on history to Bustan, but the author’s opinion differs from that of the aforementioned scholars. However, based on the analysis of the content of al-Raniri’s work, the author would like to emphasize that there are actually six works of al-Raniri on history including Bustan and the other four al-Raniri’s works on rasawwuf that contain historical element that will be explained in the following.

10 Durr al-Fara’id bi Sharh al-‘Aqida was written before 1045 AH/1635 AD, the writing of Sirat al-Mustaqim started in 1044 AH/1634 AD and completed in 1054 AH/1644 AD, Hidayat al-Habib fi al-Targhib wa al-Tarhib was written in 1045 AH/1635 AD and Akhbar al-Akhirah in 1052 AH/1642 AD.

Based on the content of Bustan, it cannot be doubted that it is indeed a work on Islamic history as it includes the history of the creation of the seven layers of heaven and the seven layers of earth, history of the Prophets, ancient kings and pious saints. The concept of tawhid (the Oneness of Allah) is reflected in the content and structure of Bustan, its sources, themes and its purpose of writing. Bustan was written by al-Raniri in the year 1638 on the behest of Sultan Iskandar Thani.\(^{14}\) It is the longest text and the biggest book written in the history of traditional Malay literature (consists of seven books (Book I, II, III, IV, V, VI and VII with the total of 60 chapters (based on Raffles 8) and the largest work of al-Raniri.\(^{15}\)

Besides Bustan, Bad‘ Khalq al-Samawat wa al-Ard and Hikayat Iskandar Dhulqarnain are other works of al-Raniri that clearly deal with history as the first narrated the creation of the earth and the heaven and the latter relates the story of Iskandar Dhulqarnain, the great king of the past who conquered the world. Moreover, Ayn al-‘Alam Qabl an Yukhlaq is also historical work as it narrates the universe before its creation. Bustan, Bad‘ Khalq al-Samawat wa al-Ard and Ayn al-‘Alam Qabl an Yukhlaq relate on the creation of the universe which is obviously history as history begin with the creation and everything that happened in history is reflection of God’s view which is explained in the Qur’an and Sunnah.

Besides the mentioned works of al-Raniri on history, the writer would like to stress that Akhbar al-Akhirah and Tibyan are also al-Raniri’s work on history even though many scholars such as Voorhoeve, Winstedt and Jelani Harun classified Akhbar al-Akhirah as al-Raniri’s work in the field of usuluddin (Islamic Theology). Meanwhile, Tibyan is recognized by aforementioned scholars in the east and the west as al-Raniri’s sole work on comparative religion. The author emphasizes that Akhbar al-Akhirah is obviously al-Raniri’s work on history as it includes the creation of Adam, paradise, hell and others similar to that of Bustan, Bad‘ Khalq al-Samawat wa al-Ard and Ayn al-‘Alam Qabl an Yukhlaq. Meanwhile, based on the evaluation on the content of Tibyan, the author would also like to stress that it is in fact a work of history as it describes the history of religion during the Prophets Idris and Nuh. Detailed historical element in Akhbar al-Akhirah and Tibyan is clearly shown in contents below:

And Ra'ina with a twist of their tongues and as a mockery of the religion (Islam). Now has come to you Our Messenger (Muhammad) explaining to you much of that which you used to hide from the Scripture and passing over (i.e. leaving out without explaining) much. Indeed, there has come to you from Allah a light (Prophet Muhammad) and a plain Book (this Qur'an)’.
Table 2 described the content of Akhbar al-Akhriah and Tibyan. Based on the table, it clearly indicates that many of the content of both works contain historical element. For example, the stories of the creation of the earth and heaven, Adam and Siti Hawa, the paradise and hell as well as the hereafter. Besides that, Akhbar al-Akhriah and Tibyan also narrate the stories concerning the Prophets in Islam, for instance, the Prophet Idris, Nuh and Isma’il. These three Prophets and many other Prophets such as Hud, Saleh, Ibrahim and Lut are also mentioned in the Qur’an. Last but not least, both works also relate the stories of the people of the past such as the people of ‘Ad, Thamud, the Bani Isra’il and others. These stories are parallel to the historical content of the Qur’an as shown in Qur’anic verses in the above-mentioned table. The content of both works is referred to the Qur’an because the Qur’an is the main source of history in Islam. The Qur’an emphasizes the importance of history and that is proven through the existence of about 1000 verses concerning history. Therefore, based on the above explanation, the author would like to stress that Akhbar al-Akhriah and Tibyan are indeed the works of history.

Besides six al-Raniri’s works that are basically history in nature, many of his other masterpieces on tasawwuf contain the historical element as below:

Table 3 indicates the historical content of Jawahir al-’Uulum fi Kashf al-Ma’lum, Fath al-Mubin ‘ala al-Mulhidin, Asrar al-Insan fi Ma’rifat al-Ruh wa al-Rahman and Durr al-Fara’id bi Sharh al-‘Aqa’id. These books are generally about tasawwuf but al-Raniri inserted some historical content that depicts the importance of history to al-Raniri and that history cannot be separated from tasawwuf. The reason is that tasawwuf guides the human beings the way to seek the will of Allah and subsequently reach the final destination that is to return to Allah.

Besides that, it is clearly seen in the table 3 that majority of the mentioned books contain similar historical stories that are concerning the creation of the earth, the Prophet ’Adam, the Prophet Muhammad (p.b.u.h.), the signs of al-Qiyamah, the death, the hereafter, the hell and heaven. In fact, these stories are also written and largely explained in Akhbar al-Akhirah. The repetition of similar historical stories mentioned above in at least eight works of al-Raniri (Bustan, Akhbar al-Akhirah, Tibyan, Bad’ Khalq al-Samawat wa al-Ard, Ayn al-‘Alam Qabli an Yukhlqiq, Jawahir al-’Uulum, Asrar al-Insan and Durr al-Fara’id) does not only indicate that these stories are of paramount importance in Islam but simultaneously al-Raniri’s purpose of writing these stories which is the reflection of al-Raniri’s concept of Islamic history.

Conclusion

Al-Raniri was a prominent scholar of Aceh and a prolific writer who had devoted his energies to writing works in various fields such as tasawwuf, kalam, figh, and history. Al-Raniri had authored 35 books and the 19 of them was in Malay language. Al-Raniri’s contribution to the field of history was no less profound. He was the first writer in the Malay-Indonesian World to initiate a new form of Malay historical writing and to introduce the concept of Islamic history in Bustan. Many scholars regarded Bustan as al-Raniri’s work on history, however, the authors emphasize that there are precisely six al-Raniri’s works on history including Bustan that are Bad’ Khalq al-Samawat wa al-Ard, Akhbar al-Akhirah, Ayn al-‘Alam Qabli ‘an Yukhlqiq, Hikayat Iskandar Dhuqlqarnain and Tibyan. Besides that, historical elements are largely existed in many of al-Raniri’s works such as Jawahir al-’Uulum fi Kashf al-Ma’lum, Fath al-Mubin ‘ala al-Mulhidin, Asrar al-Insan fi Ma’rifat al-Ruh wa al-Rahman and Durr al-Fara’id bi Sharh al-‘Aqa’id. The historical elements specifically the element of Islamic history in al-Raniri’s works indicates the importance of history to al-Raniri and consequently reveal that history is the basic theoretical element of al-Raniri.
