Managing across Public-Private Partnerships:
A Review of Implementation in China and Australia

Loo-See Beh
University of Malaya

Abstract

Public-private partnership is about governance in the contemporary public service and public interest in public administration with the participation of private sector in the market economy in establishing strategic partnerships in responsible economic management of public services. This article provides an overview of the implementation of public-private partnerships and how these evidences have been managed across China (including Hong Kong SAR) and Australia. It also depicts the key challenges of managing them in both countries given their different stages of maturity in implementation framework of regulation and evaluation.

Keywords: public-private partnerships, public administration, China, Australia

JEL classification: H41, H44, L32, L33