Innovation and Learning Experiences in Rapidly Developing East Asia

Edited by
Rajah Rasiah, Thiruchelvam Kanagasundram and Keun Lee
Contents

Notes on Contributors vi

1. Introduction: Governance and coordination modes in driving innovation and learning
   Rajah Rasiah, Thiruchelvam Kanagasundram and Keun Lee 1

2. Ownership, R&D and export intensities of automotive parts firms in East Asia
   Rajah Rasiah 9

3. Moving up in the global value chain in button manufacturing in China
   Rajah Rasiah, Xin-Xin Kong and Jebamalai Vinanchiarachi 27

4. Public research system under the people’s participatory government of Korea
   Kong-Rae Lee 41

5. Garment manufacturing in Laos: clustering and technological capabilities
   Rajah Rasiah, Vanthana Nolintha and Latdavanh Songvilay 59

6. Impediments to innovation: evidence from Malaysian manufacturing firms
   Lim Ee Shiang and Shyamala Nagaraj 75

7. Training and development practices of large Philippines companies
   Divina M. Edralin 91

8. Innovation policies in Thailand: towards a system of innovation approach?
   P. Intarakumnerd and Cristina Chaminade 107

9. Epilogue: Implications from industrializing East Asia’s innovation and learning experiences
   Rajah Rasiah 123

Index 129