Rugyah refers to the healing method based on the Quran and Hadith through the recitation of the Quran, Du’aa, supplication, and supplication that is used as a means of treating illnesses and other problems, by reciting verses of the Quran, the names and attributes of Allah, or by having the prayer in Arabic or in a language the meaning of which is understood. The use of rugyah as a method of treatment is popular among the Islamic alternative healing practitioners. This method of rugyah is based on the recommendations and practices carried out by the Prophet (pbuh) for self-treatment or to help his companions and others. Through the analysis of the inductive, deductive, and historical approaches, this article aims to explain the views of Imam al-Bukhari in relation to aspects of rugyah and its use in the treatment of disease by analyzing some chapters translated (syntegra al-buhay) by Imam al-Bukhari in the Khutba al-Tashabiba.
