ABSTRACT

Ibn Khaldun (1332-1406) had personal visions and theories concerning epistemology and education. He had a role in building societies and defining the role of education in civilization, thus influencing history. His contributions to educational curriculum predate educational scholars. The aim of this study is to examine Ibn Khaldūn’s Epistemological Curriculum and the influence of induction on the curriculum, based on his book ‘Muqaddimah Ibn Khaldūn.’ This study adopts the analytical textual method to analyze the Muqaddimah and deduce the role played by induction in the formation of his theories. The paper begins by presenting Ibn Khaldūn’s notion of epistemology. This is followed by a discussion of his classification of knowledge, his educational pedagogy, and the influence of induction on his epistemological and educational theories. The research concludes by examining selected excerpts from the Muqaddimah which assist in determining the role of the inductive method in Ibn Khaldūn’s epistemology. This research is very new and original in nature contributing in building a bridge between the philosophy, education, and social sciences.

Keywords: Ibn Khaldūn, induction, epistemology, curriculum, classification of science, educational pedagogy.

Dear Dr. Abdollatif Ahmadi Ramchahi

Congratulations!!!

The organisers of AIMC 2017 wish to write and congratulate you for your participation, which was an unprecedented conference in many respects. The successes recorded couldn’t have been possible without you.

It may interest you to know that we had about 800 presentations in the 5M5S, normal presentations, and poster presentations. All these were concluded in one day (1st May 2017). Additionally, we had 139 virtual presentations the next day, i.e., 2nd May 2017.

We are happy to inform you that all these presentations were conducted successfully, but not without hitches and challenges. AIMC 2017 was initially planned to accommodate 600 presentations, but so many walk-in participants who were not captured on the presentation schedule (but who had earlier submitted their abstracts) were allowed to participate. Considering most of the walk-in participants were from other countries, and have not paid to register earlier due to overseas payment difficulties, the organisers decided to give them the opportunity to be part of AIMC 2017. This resulted in a number of issues including shortage of kits and certificates.

We are therefore sorry for all inconveniences caused to our highly esteemed participants. Arrangements are on course to send to you all items you have not received during the conference.

As a member of this network with lots of opportunities, we will appreciate your feedback on this event so that we could improve on our future activities. We kindly implore you to click the link below and fill in the form, please.
