The Fields and Standards of Intellectual Freedom in the Al-Quran

Thabet Ahmad Abdallah Abualhaj

Freedom is a desired treasure, and an individual and collective necessity. It arises from human instincts and is a primary drive for continued human existence. The struggle to defend freedom has been responsible for many conflicts, and legislation has been written in the pursuit of justice and equality, contrived by imperfect legislators and often found wanting in practice.

From the first revelation of its message, Islam, like all other religions, placed emphasis on respect and honour, without which human beings cannot survive in this world. Allah has endowed human beings with the ability to think and evaluate rationally. Man depends on his rational faculties and freedom to think in pursuing his economic, social, and political life. Islamic dawah relies on the rational intellect to prove the existence of Allah and His Oneness, belief in the Angels, messengers, divine books, and fate and destiny.

Because of the freedom to think, man was chosen to be the vicegerent of Allah on earth. As Allah says: "And (remember) when your Lord said to the angels, "Verily, I am going to place (mankind)
