Social Research Methodology and New Techniques in Analysis, Interpretation, and Writing

M. Rezaul Islam (University of Dhaka, Bangladesh & University of Malaya, Malaysia)

Projected Release Date: December, 2018  Copyright: © 2019  Pages: 300
DOI: 10.4018/978-1-5224-5798-7

Description
The importance of scientific investigation and research is becoming more pronounced in today's society, with many organizations relying on this research to make informed decisions. As such, research methodology courses have been integrated into undergraduate and master's programs at most academic institutions where students are being challenged to conduct and write research.

Social Research Methodology and New Techniques in Analysis, Interpretation, and Writing is a pivotal reference source that provides vital research on the main concepts of research writing, including the guidelines of research methodology and proposal designing. While highlighting topics such as mixed method research, research objectives, and project proposals, this publication provides examples of eight PhD proposals and the frameworks used in organizing qualitative, quantitative, and mixed-method research. This book is ideally designed for graduate-level students, academicians, researchers, educators, scholars, education administrators, and policymakers seeking current research on the key steps and techniques used in organizing social research proposals.

Topics Covered
The many academic areas covered in this publication include, but are not limited to:

- Global Institutions
- Mixed Method Research
- Practice Research
- Project Proposals
- Qualitative and Quantitative Research
- Research Guidelines
- Research Methodology
- Research Objective
- Research Proposals
- Scientific Investigation
Chapter 7
Community based rehabilitation program for acid assault victims of Bangladesh
Tahmina Islam, Dr Bhiru Bakar Ah
This chapter is a Ph.D. research proposal based on qualitative research design. The study aims at exploring some community-based rehabilitation for the acid assault victims (women) in Bangladesh. The proposal was submitted by the first author to pursue her Ph.D. studies at the Department of Social Administration and Justice, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, University of Malaya, Malaysia. It contains major components of a research proposal that includes the background of the study, problem statement, research questions and objectives, literature review, conceptual and theoretical framework, research methodology, research questions and objectives, statement of the research problem, significance of study, research methodology and the time plan with the main tasks into a Gantt chart. This study will examine how social capital brings positive changes among the migrant workers' livelihoods. Here, social capital is a powerful tool that helps to make a bridge through social networking, social trust, collective actions, sharing knowledge and experiences in the livelihoods of the migrant workers. This chapter will be useful to those who are interested to conduct their study with a mixed method approach on this particular field.

Chapter 8
Usage of Social Capital among Migrant Workers for their Livelihoods in Malaysia
Abdul Zaman, Rouslan Mohd Hussein
This chapter elaborates a Ph.D. proposal based on a mixed method approach conducted at the Department of Anthropology and Sociology, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, University of Malaya, Malaysia. This proposal has been written with the requirement of a Ph.D. proposal at the University of Malaya. This proposal includes the main components of a research proposal that includes the study background, literature review, conceptual and theoretical framework, research questions and objectives, statement of the research problem, significance of study, research methodology and the time plan with the main tasks into a Gantt chart. This study will examine how social capital brings positive changes among the migrant workers’ livelihoods. Here, social capital is a powerful tool that helps to make a bridge through social networking, social trust, collective actions, sharing knowledge and experiences in the livelihoods of the migrant workers. This chapter will be useful to those who are interested to conduct their study with a mixed method approach on this particular field.

Chapter 9
Land Rights of Indigenous People: A Study on Santal Community in Bangladesh
Nunna Sulim, Remy Bulan
This chapter is based on the Ph.D. proposal drafted as per the requirements of the Faculty of Law, University of Malaya. Following the guidelines, firstly the proposal has mirrored on the background of the issue and then, focused on the actual problem commonly faced by the victims. Secondly, it traces the research questions and sets the goal that the research aims to achieve. Therefore, to justify the research, a logical expression behind the study has been provided which has been followed up by a brief literature review discussing the conceptual and theoretical framework of the research. Thereafter, it included the methodology to be followed by the researcher to achieve the aims set earlier. Finally, if put light on the scope of the research showing that in spite of so many limitations, the present study can stand as a potential source to ensure the land rights of indigenous communities of Bangladesh.

Chapter 10
Bioethanol Production from High Sugary Corn Genotypes by Decreasing Enzyme Consumption: Bioethanol Production from High Sugary Corn Genotypes
Nasirul Iskandar